A MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT

Swing for the Fences. At the time of this writing, it's baseball season, AND hockey season, AND basketball season. Big 10 football is not being played in the fall. Long standing, traditional events, like your community foundation's annual meeting, have gone viral. Others have been cancelled altogether. Wearing masks is considered considerate AND fashionable AND even political. Store shelves are void of disinfectant wipes. Schools are turned upside down with virtual learning AND lack of access to virtual learning AND fear. The race for social justice and racial equality seems to have retreated to the starting block, with the finishing line a distant, intangible goal. Many who have never visited a food pantry are now reluctant but regular guests. Parents are navigating ZOOM meetings AND teaching AND parenting, while others are also sprucing up their resume on LinkedIn, looking for a job to replace the one they lost. Such an out of the norm world could have made Crawford Countians feel overwhelmed, confused, or defeated.

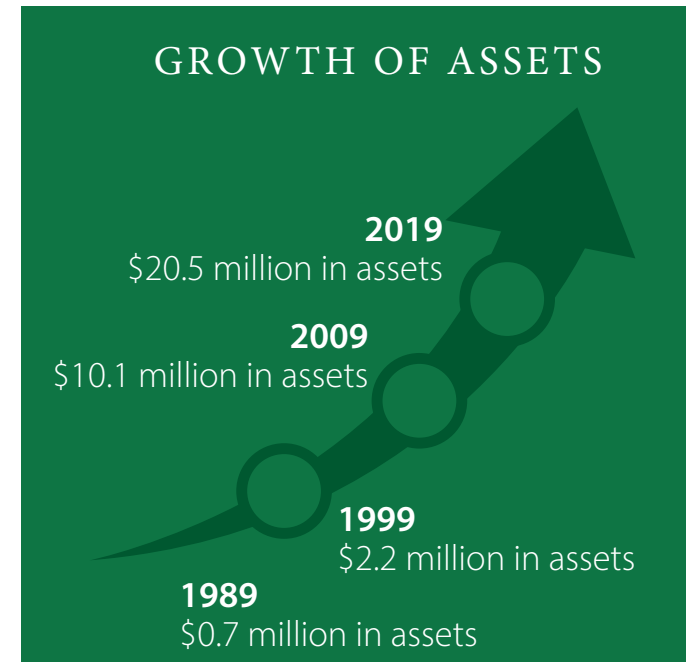

Instead, our community rallied, and we need to celebrate our tenacity and positive outcomes. So let's list a few. We kept our case numbers down. We stayed home when we had to. We didn't overwhelm our local health care facilities. We donated to food pantries. We held "stay strong" car parades and car graduations. We ordered take out from local eateries. We decorated our windows with signs and words of encouragement. We helped our businesses navigate loan and financial aid programs. We put bears in windows and took our children on scavenger hunts. We volunteered and raised money to beautify our downtowns. We hung banners of our veterans. We hung banners AND displayed yard signs congratulating our graduating seniors and their accomplishments. We brought food to our medical staff and first responders. We held peaceful demonstrations. We sewed and distributed face masks. We gave blood. We took walks in our parks.

In his book, Strong Towns: A Bottom-Up Revolution to Rebuild American Prosperity, author Charles L. Marohn, Jr. states that, "...I believe that a financially strong national economy is the byproduct of having financially strong cities, towns, and neighborhoods. I do not believe the opposite: that our cities will be financially strong and healthy if we can only create a strong national economy. In short, I believe that economic strength is built from the bottom and works its way up ... I do not believe that a focus on success at the national level will result in enduring, fine-grained prosperity in our local communities." That being said, our Crawford County community did its part to build, to believe, to "bottom up."

Similarly, rural sociologist Benjamin Winchester claims that it is a misconception that rural America is dying. He believes that rural is changing and restructuring, and that it's actually very resilient. Or to put it another way, "If rural is dying, why can't I find a house to buy?" He cites a survey listing the top three reasons people choose to live rural: simpler pace of life (think I-270 gridlock), safer and more secure, and low housing costs. He also cites PEW Research claiming that while 20% of respondents actually live rural, 50% say they would prefer to! So little did we know, but some actually envy our small communities and small efforts that pay such big benefits.

In our current times, it also matters more than ever that we work at happiness and our mental health, and remember that it's okay to find happiness in hard times. Psychology Professor Barbara Frederickson at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, found in a study that while happiness helps create and sustain emotional resilience, the opposite is also true. The emotional resilience that comes from knowing how you can get through a crisis with a little less despair and a little more sanity and perspective, can also lead to happiness. Therefore, as you look through this 2019 Gratitude Report, we hope the successes of 2019 will help stir fond memories of our lives before the chaos struck. As you look at the pictures and factoids in the 2021 calendar, we hope you are inspired by the people and places that make up our home. And remember Crawford County: Swing for the fences.

Regards,
Lisa Workman, CFRE

Notable Crawford Countian – At the peak of American Red Cross wartime activity in 1945, 7.5 million volunteers provided service to the military. Monies raised allowed the Red Cross to provide coffee, sandwiches, cigarettes and comfort to our Armed Forces. The volunteer in this magazine cover is New Washington's own Betty Dickinson.

Looking Down on Bucyrus - This sunset photo captures the courthouse, library, Moose, and of course – The Community Foundation for Crawford County, and is taken from the roof of the Elks. The Bratwurst Capital of America is located on two major historic transportation routes, the Lincoln Highway and Sandusky River, and it was Indian Territory for many years. Founded in 1821, Bucyrus citizens are celebrating their bicentennial in 2021.

Free Spirits Take Many Forms - Cemeteries were our nation's first public parks, and Oakwood Cemetery in Bucyrus still attracts many strollers, joggers and bicyclists. Other local small ones like Conley Cemetery on SR 98 East have become ignored and overgrown. For a list of cemeteries that could use the TLC of volunteers, contact Ron Amore at ramore12000@yahoo.com.

Hang in There! Beverly found this common grey tree frog on the branch of a viburnum shrub in her yard in Bucyrus Township. Grey tree frogs have the ability to camouflage themselves from grey to yellow-green, although they change color at a slower rate than chameleons. Native to much of the eastern U.S. and southeastern Canada, this particular frog won Beverly the 2021 calendar photo contest!

They're All the Buzz – As honey bees gather pollen and nectar for their survival, they pollinate crops such as blueberries, broccoli and brussel sprouts. Both crop yield and quality would be greatly reduced without honey bee pollination. Since some pollinators are declining in population, “bee” grateful next time you spot one – it’s helping feed you! This honey bee was on a crocus blossom in Bill’s yard.

Red, White and Bale – Mendy and Russ Sellman, who operate Rus-Men Farms, turned these 800-lb hay bales into patriotism spread out over 55 acres. In the summer of 2020, picture takers frequented their farm at the crossroads of New Winchester and Iberia Roads outside of Galion. “In this country we have so much to be thankful for, and life is a gift,” said Mendy.

Sunset Over Pasture – Anne delighted in this sunset photo taken over her family's pasture along the old Lincoln Highway. As much as some of us might make fun of the fact that Crawford Countians are surrounded by farmland, rural areas can be simply captivating at sunset. Anne thinks this one rivals most ocean view sunsets, and we agree!

Drone Over Hords – This aerial view over Hord Farms is a great example of the technological advancements made in farming over the past few decades. A pig, cow and grain farm, the Hords have five generations and over 100 years in this family business. They are also partners in a new pork processing facility in Michigan from where fresh pork products are made. Crawford County should be proud of our farmers - they feed people!

Amish at Work – These usable trees on Wynford-Nevada Road are being harvested for lumber. Horses are dragging the felled trees to the edge of the woods, where the logs are then trucked to a saw mill for milling. Ohio has the largest Amish population of any state, and Crawford Countians frequently hire them to complete various projects like this one.
