

ANTHONY HOBGOOD

PERFORMANCE MANAGER

Anthony is currently the Performance Manager of the EXOS facility in Gulf Breeze, Florida. Since starting at EXOS in the summer of 2009, he has coached and educated a variety of populations including NFL veterans, NFL Scouting Combine participants, Olympic track and field, MLB, MLS, and youth athletes. Anthony's primary focus has been to serve the Special Operations community of the United States Military. On a daily basis he is privileged to work with our Nation's finest as a performance coach as well as an educator.

Prior to joining EXOS, Anthony graduated from the University of Mississippi with a Bachelor's degree in Exercise Science. During this time he played fullback for the university's football team. His academic and athletic pursuits at Ole Miss were a catalyst for his career path and led him to the University of West Florida where he earned a Master's Degree in Exercise Science. Anthony served as a graduate assistant in the biomechanics research lab at the Andrews' Institute in Gulf Breeze from 2007-2009. During this time he was also an intern and part-time coach at EXOS. In his life outside of work Anthony is an avid outdoorsman, proud husband and father to 2 children, James and Olivia.
