

Road Map for the Return to Work

Two plans you need to help your team and customers feel safe and confident:
Short Term Transition and Long Term Sustainability

Transition Plan:

Solutions to solve the immediate and near term needs to bring your team safely in your workplace

Communication is Essential

- Times are confusing and changing. Help your team comply and gain confidence with the right communication and signage
- From directional floor signage, mask requirements, and other policies, communication has never been more essential. We can help with both standard and customized signage solutions Glass Cleaning and Disinfecting

Distancing Barriers and Solutions

- These may include a mix of temporary and hybrid solutions to create space and barriers between team members and customers
- Lead times vary and demand is growing so it is important to get your plan in place. We can help.

Supplies you Need

Distributors are currently managing through supply chain disruptions situations. But we have options to help disinfect your workplace and protect your teams. As result, we are helping people with transitional plans that include

- Alternate branded items
- Substituted solutions for same desired result

Long-Term Sustainable Plan:

Supply Solutions

Once supply chain disruptions have become normalized and preferred items become available what are the products and brands you need to manage your facility? We can help you put a plan together to ensure you have a regular replenished supply.

Strong Communication Plan

By documenting how and when you are sanitizing and disinfecting, you can create confidence and trust among your team and your employees. Create a process to help people “see” when disinfection has occurred. This will help everyone feel confident and safe.

Reimagining Workspaces

We have distancing barriers and solutions in a variety of configurations. Our design team can evaluate your workspace and look at reusing, reconfiguring and retrofitting your space for the long-term to provide the distance and safety your team needs to work safely, comfortably and productively.

Rethinking the Breakroom with Touchless Solutions

When you bring people back in the office, you will need policies and solutions to help them manage through the workday and you will need different solutions. Our team can audit your breakroom and provide recommendations to offer touchless towel, coffee and supply distribution.

Let us help you prep your workspace to be clean, organized and welcoming. Your Miller's Account Manager can help you source and manage the products you need to bring your team back safely.
