Printware is proud to announce the launch of their new website!

St. Paul, MINNESOTA – March 1, 2021 - iJetColor by Printware, provider of the world's fastest, most profitable short-run inkjet envelope solutions is excited to announce the launch of their new and improved website! Printware recognizes their website as an important tool to provide resources for prospects and customers alike and has worked hard to deliver a new site that is easier to navigate, has faster, optimized mobile browsing, improved video performance, increased browsing security, and more new content. In addition to these updates, www.ijetcolor.com continues to offer tools and information about the iJetColor Family of Products in addition to customer testimonial videos, access to support, training videos, technical bulletins, an industry blog, and customer online ordering for consumables and wearable parts.

“We are committed to providing value to our customers not only from the iJetColor Family of Products, but also through the tools our customers and prospects use to learn more about them. This new and improved website will allow our customers to access our training tools and online shop quickly and efficiently so they can utilize their valuable time for profitably producing envelopes. We will still have all of the great resources available to our prospective customers to help them make the decision about which inkjet solution is right for them and their business like our profit predictor, FAQ sheets, and much more,” commented Tim Murphy, President of iJetColor by Printware.

The web address for the new iJetColor site will not change.
