Dispatch:

Interruption of face-to-face teaching activities between January 2 and January 9, 2022.

Prepared by:

Director of IPAM Porto

Daniel Sá, PhD

Oporto, December 13, 2021

Considering:

The indications of the Council of Ministers that took place last November 25th, and where it was decreed that from December 1:

- Portugal would enter a new state of calamity;
- Between January 2 and January 9, face-to-face teaching activities in higher education institutions would be interrupted.

The Director of IPAM Porto, after consultation with the Scientific-Technical Council and the Pedagogical Council, hereby determines that:

- The campus will be closed, keeping only essential services remotely;
- Classes and academic activities will take place 100% online, through CANVAS;
- Paper presentations and defenses scheduled for this week will take place remotely, through CANVAS;
- Written tests previously scheduled for this week will be rescheduled and communicated to students by the respective professors.

This dispatch is effective as of the date it is signed and will be published in full on the institution's website.
