Justin joined HoganTaylor Technology in June 2021, where he leads the managed services division. He has more than 20 years of IT experience spanning across multiple industries with a focus on strategic design, streamlined implementations, and expert management of IT operations.

Prior to joining HoganTaylor Technology, Slaughter served as IT Manager for a nonprofit healthcare consulting company and was responsible for the administration, management, and support of the IT infrastructure for the organization. Additionally, in this role, he served as a technical resource for healthcare clients across the state of Oklahoma.

Throughout his career, Justin has successfully managed large scale deployments and migrations of Active Directory, Exchange, SQL Server, Operating Systems, Firewalls, Network Components, Tier 1 Applications, and business critical applications.

Slaughter is a former member of the Information Systems Audit and Control Association (ISACA) and a current member of the Computing Technology Industry Association (CompTIA). He received certifications as Certified Fiber Optics Specialist in Testing and Certified Fiber Optic Technician from Southeastern Oklahoma State University.
