Kim Fairchild provides assurance services to a wide range of organizations, including those in collective investment funds, other investments and nonprofit. Kim currently serves as HoganTaylor's leader of the highly specialized Collective Investment Funds practice, which provides services to hundreds of collective and common trust funds for many large trust companies. Additionally, many of these funds and nonprofit organizations utilize different financial instruments, which can be complex, which makes Kim's specialized expertise in the investment area of significant value.

Prior to joining HoganTaylor in 2001, Kim was with PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP, where she supervised audits for numerous private and publicly-held companies.
