

Usually, perishable products are defined as those having low shelf-life. For example: fruits, vegetable etc.

How does it differ from a non-perishable product ?

— Non-perishable products — Perishable products

Broadly perishable products are of two types depending upon how quality deteriorates in time.

