The Universitas 21 Health Sciences Group is a unique global university network of Health Sciences staff and students that includes members from 19 universities worldwide, and a collaborative group of Universitas 21, that provide Health Sciences Faculty of member universities a framework for exploring opportunities for:

- Collaborative research
- Information exchange
- Sharing of resources

The group includes the discipline areas of: Dentistry, Health and Rehabilitation Sciences, Medicine, Nursing and Midwifery, Pharmacy, Public Health and Biomedical Sciences. As a collaborative network, the group work together on numerous interdisciplinary projects and activities for both staff and students of relevance to the Health Sciences with a focus on global health issues.

Group members from all disciplines meet face to face at our U21 Health Sciences Group Annual Meeting, where they have the opportunity to come together to share ideas and collaborate on both new and established projects. The 2021 Annual Meeting will be hosted by Tecnológico de Monterrey.

The Tecnológico de Monterrey School of Medicine and Health Sciences, as in 2010 when it hosted the Annual Meeting, this 2021 is pleased to offer the online environment for all members to continue with the excellent work and progress that they have done in the meetings of U21 HSG.

The 2021 U21 HSG Annual Meeting will have a central theme of Prevention, Wellbeing and Longevity in a Post-COVID World and It is an approach to reflect, design, and implement programs, policies, legislation, and research for the benefit of global public health based on the lessons learned in an era of pandemics.

We very much look forward to welcoming you and we hope the resulting discussions will 'enhance individual and collective contributions by leadership to Health Sciences education and research and to social transformation through sharing of experiences and resources and through collaborative interdisciplinary projects.' (U21 HSG mission).
