

Incognia uses network signals and on-device sensors to create a location fingerprint for frictionless mobile identity verification and authentication.

