

VÉRYABLE

Case Study

Medical:
Warehousing

The Client

MedCo

- Large medical supplier with advanced logistics operations.

The Problem

Inability to maintain enough employees was making growth difficult

- MedCo needed general and skilled labor for its warehousing operations to keep up with the company's growth.

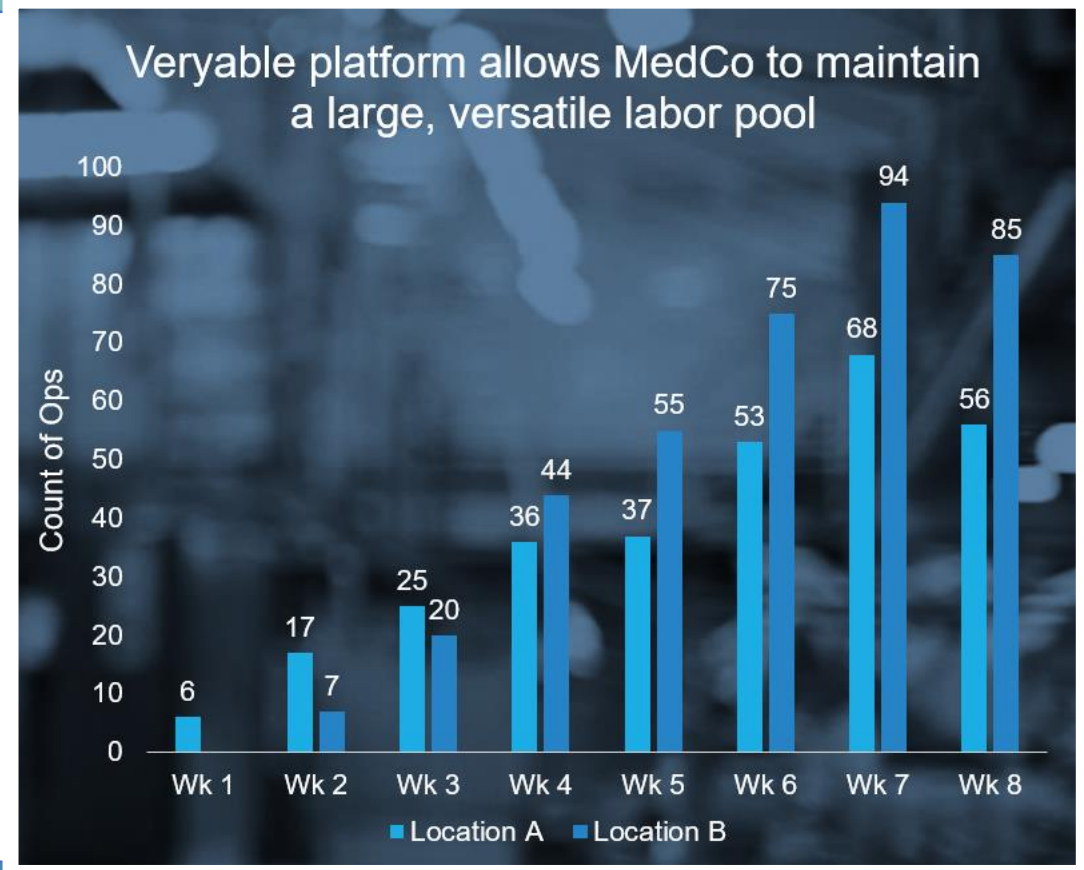

Our Solution

Give access to skilled and general workers on-demand

MedCo used Veryable to find general and skilled warehouse workers who were seeking flexible work arrangements and short-term engagements.

Over time, the company built a labor pool it could rely on that would scale with their business.

Our Solution

To engage with workers from Veryable, MedCo offered orientations to first time on-demand workers. This ensured the workers were familiar with the technology in MedCo's warehouse.

MedCo brought in groups of 10-30 Operators to work at a time with minimal supervision required, thanks to the orientations. MedCo also trained proficient operators for higher skilled work, which gave them the versatile labor pool they required.

The Results

After meeting their goals with on-demand workers for two different locations, MedCo is now in the process of eliminating millions of dollars of OT costs and developing cross-market implementation with a scalable platform.

“Veryable has enabled us to make the changes we knew we needed to make in order to grow.”

Director of Operations, MedCo

