

Innovating Remotely with edison365ideas

Continue collaboration

Ideas often need development from multiple parties to become a success; this means a high level of collaboration. Leveraging your existing investments into Microsoft Teams and Yammer means that your employees can access edison365ideas from their collaboration tool of their choice.

Bring the team together

Utilizing a single space to host all your innovation activities will allow you teams to see what's going on and easily contribute themselves. edison365ideas is a centralized and transparent idea management solution, enabling your employees to drive innovation through a single sign-on.

Stay in the know

Without the office chatter it might be difficult to maintain lines of communication around the development of proposed ideas or challenges. edison365ideas enables you to set notifications on the things you want to hear about.

Be open to new perspectives

Remote working can make it difficult to share those 'spur of the moment' ideas that happen in the middle of discussions. edison365ideas supports both top-down innovation as well as bottom-up, enabling your employees to drive innovation from their own homes.

Recognize and reward

Establishing a way to reward your employees without the direct line of sight you would have in the office is key to maintaining their engagement. With gamification enabled edison365ideas supports your organization to establish a rewards and recognition program.

Communicate feedback

Feedback is essential to engagement and the development of ideas. Promote peer feedback with the triage function of edison365ideas that enables you to score ideas against configurable KPIs.
