When organisations have a data privacy programme implemented, it's important that they can report and assess on their organisational activities. By using the reports feature on the platform, senior management/ data protection champions can get a full overview of the organisation's usage on the platform. They may need to get a high-level overview of the risks that the processing activities they carry out, possess or simply to see which employees have been trained to identify gaps. The reports feature is also a very handy tool for if an assessment is being carried out and the organisation needs to provide evidence of the processes they have in place.
