Lunavi is your guide to the digital age, illuminating the technology solutions that lead to impactful business outcomes and competitive advantages for your organization. We are one of the only digital transformation partners who can take you from data center to DevOps, extending your team and working across the platforms and applications you depend on to stay productive and drive ROI.

Founded nearly 15 years ago, Lunavi has evolved into a service-oriented, value-driven provider of IT consulting, managed services, and Agile software development. Our mission is to combine human ingenuity and technology to deliver solutions for today, tomorrow, and the future.

Digital Transformation, Delivered

Lunavi is focused on helping customers advance their digital transformation goals by modernizing business applications, migrating solutions to the cloud, designing hybrid cloud solutions, and applying Agile and DevOps engineering practices to build new, innovative solutions. From application modernization to colocation and everything in between, we'll work with you to uncover the next steps in your digital transformation journey.

Our Approach

Every customer is unique, and we take pride in personalizing our approach to meet your needs. This hands-on consultative approach to IT services brings innovative solutions to light through our Delivery Team model. We integrate with your team to impart knowledge and build a complete solution, using an Agile approach to help you deliver value faster and make continuous improvements as you progress on your digital transformation journey. We help clients achieve:

- Innovative services and software that generate new revenue and competitive advantage
- Cost savings from operational efficiency, consolidation, or modernization
- Minimized risk by securing data and applications
- Faster time-to-market and the ability to react quickly to business demands

They listened to our business needs and brought their wealth of IT skills, knowledge, and leadership abilities to our project, which led us to a successful build and implementation of our new system.
