EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Nisos researchers identified a coordinated, inauthentic network of approximately 317 Twitter accounts that aim to influence Honduran domestic audiences and their political leanings in their upcoming general election. The Honduran presidential election is currently scheduled for 28 November 2021.

The network is being used to conduct a negative campaign against Xiomara Castro and Yani Rosenthal, two presidential candidates from the Liberty and Refoundation Party and the Liberal Party of Honduras, respectively. Rather than focusing on encouraging voters to support the National Party of Honduras candidate, Nasry Asfura, the primary objective of the campaign is to discourage and deter Hondurans from voting for Castro or Rosenthal, or to not vote at all.

The attacks against Xiomara Castro and Yani Rosenthal center around conspiracy theories regarding the candidates forming a potential political alliance. The network is also pushing content designed to negatively impact the candidates' political images, including accusations of corruption and money laundering.

The campaign primarily began on 6 October and continued until 8 October 2021, when the majority of accounts stopped posting content. A small subset of accounts subsequently made concerted posts on 14 October 2021 that further denounced or decried any potential political alliance between Castro and Rosenthal. This coincided with an announcement by former presidential candidate Salvador Nasralla of the Savior Party of Honduras (Partido Salvador de Honduras), who endorsed Xiomara Castro for President of Honduras the day before on 13 October 2021.¹ These posts contained links to news articles by La Tribuna Honduras, one of which references that "on Twitter, many voters are beginning to denounce a pact" between Castro and Rosenthal.²

Nasry Asfura of the National Party of Honduras is the only candidate who stands to gain from negative campaigning against both Xiomara Castro and Yani Rosenthal. The National Party of Honduras is the incumbent political party, and Juan Orlando Hernandez, the sitting president, was the winner of a hotly disputed election against Salvador Nasralla in 2017. We note that the inauthentic network made little to no mention of Nasry Asfura or of Juan Orlando Hernandez, and criticism of the National Party of Honduras was virtually nonexistent.

INAUTHENTIC ACTIVITY

The 317 inauthentic accounts used for this short campaign almost all list their locations as within Honduras. The accounts contain many similar attributes, which are listed as follows:

- The majority of the inauthentic accounts within this network were created in 2011, 2012, or 2013 and have very few followers. A small number of Twitter accounts were created either in 2017 or more recently in July 2021.
- The accounts appear dormant from 2011 or the date of creation until 2021, when the accounts began to post content about the Honduran elections.
- The majority of posts used hashtags #YaniRosenthal, #XiomaraCastro, #EleccionesHonduras, or #PartidoLiberalHonduras within their Tweets and were most active between 6 October and 8 October 2021. Notably, the hashtag #NasryAsfura (the National Party of Honduras candidate) was not used as part of this network.
- At least 19 accounts all published similar content at the exact same time on the same date on 7 October 2021 at 10:16:10 PM. The content contains similar phrasing about Xiomara Castro joining with Yani Rosenthal, and some of the same set of memes are reused across Tweets.
- Accounts that subsequently posted on 14 October 2021 all shared links to the same two online news articles from La Tribuna Honduras.
- Some accounts within the network use what appear to be Generative Adversarial Network (GAN) images as the account profile picture.³

We also found that a small amount of the inauthentic accounts contain links to the social media profiles of real individuals whose images are being used in the inauthentic accounts. The majority of the individuals whose images are being used are from Peru, but the inauthentic accounts all list their locations as in Honduras. In fake accounts that are using images of real people, the social media profiles of the real people are linked within the fake account so as not to notify the true owner of the pictures.

Coordination and Timestamps

We found that many of the accounts involved in this network would systematically post similar content at the same exact time. Below is a cluster of nineteen Twitter accounts which all tweeted anti-Rosenthal content on 7 October 2021 at the same exact time at 10:16:10 PM. Seven of the accounts used the hashtag #EleccionesHonduras, while seven used hashtag #YaniRosenthal and five used hashtag #XiomaraCastro.

CONTENT AND NARRATIVES

The narratives being pushed by this network focus on disparaging the political opponents and fellow presidential candidates of Nasry Asfura, Xiomara Castro and Yani Rosenthal. The network is sharing a variety of different narratives against Castro and Rosenthal, including personal attacks or attacks on their political stances. The majority of posts focus on Yani Rosenthal, who was convicted and served 36 months in prison in the United States for laundering drug proceeds for the Cachiros, a Honduran drug trafficking organization.¹⁰ Many of the posts and memes specifically focus on Rosenthal's money laundering charges.

The content shared by the inauthentic network have numerous commonalities, which are listed as follows:

- The posts make similar statements about the user intending to vote for Xiomara Castro, but asserting that if Castro makes an alliance with Yani Rosenthal, that they will either not vote at all or will vote for Salvador Nasralla (former Honduran presidential candidate).^{11 12 13 14 15}
- Variations of the posts state that a union between Castro and Rosenthal would be like voting for the National Party, which is the party of current President Juan Orlando Hernández and presidential candidate Nasry Asfura.^{16 17} They also state that the union would be similar to voting for the “cachurecos,” or crooked, which is a derogatory term used in Honduras to refer to political conservatives in Honduras.^{18 19 20}
- The posts accuse Yani Rosenthal of being power-hungry, of being a gangster, or of being a “cachureco” or corrupt.^{21 22 23}
- Some posts attack Xiomara Castro for her views on LGBT rights and abortion, stating that she is “too pro-LGBT” or that will legalize abortion.^{24 25 26} She is also attacked as a “chavista” and supporter of the communist Venezuelan regime.²⁷

One of the news articles, written by Marcio Enrique Sierra Mejia, potentially makes reference to the activities and existence of the inauthentic Twitter network by stating that "Xiomara Castro de Zelaya's seven days of rest due to an injury to her eye would have been enough to finish negotiating the alliance between Yani Rosenthal and Xiomara Castro. On Twitter, many voters are beginning to denounce a possible pact."³⁷

Los siete días de reposo de Xiomara Castro de Zelaya por una lesión en su ojo, habrían sido suficientes para terminar de negociar la alianza entre Yani Rosenthal y Xiomara Castro. El vínculo entre ambos políticos es estrecho y data de décadas. En Twitter, muchos electores comienzan a denunciar sobre un posible pacto. Analistas

Yani y Xiomara pactan una alianza

Xiomara y Yani Rosenthal estarían pactando en secreto. De acuerdo a un artículo de opinión publicado en el Diario La Tribuna, fuentes cercanas a ambos candidatos afirman que la unión es irreversible. La amistad que Zelaya ha tenido con Rosenthal durante muchos años sería inquebrantable y solidaria incluso en tiempo de elecciones.
