If your company has become a victim of a cyber attack, here are some steps you should follow:

Follow your company's incident response plan

A plan developed in advance of any incident should be specific to the needs of your business and typically covers:*

- Containing the situation
- Assessing the nature, scope, and severity of the incident
- Examining your systems

A communication plan for employees, customers and third parties

Follow legal requirements for reporting the event and notifying impacted third parties

Report the incident immediately so that we can investigate and provide assistance
