Cyber Security for the Legal Sector

Cyberattacks targeting law firms are becoming increasingly frequent, with thousands of attacks per day. Criminals understand the value of the data you hold, for the extortion or exploitation of you or your clients. The sad truth is many attacks use the same old methods to overwhelm the controls that IT departments are struggling to manage. The bad news is that it is going to get worse.

The speed of attack and compromise has reached the point where it is not possible for the 'old' ways to work anymore. The good news is that advances in automation and integration mean there is a new way that works and is affordable - especially in the context of fines, lost time, recovery costs and reputational damage.
