MANAGING SECURITY FOR THE SAFETY OF YOUR PEOPLE AND PROPERTY

Corporate security administrators benefit from a robust security system with features and functions that enable them to effectively manage the facility and operations. Administrators may arm and disarm the system, lock or unlock access-control doors, add or delete system users or change their access rights, change schedules and holiday dates, and run reports for analysis and evaluation. Commercial security systems can be checked and managed onsite, from a smartphone, or from any computer that provides a secure Internet connection. Our commercial solution also includes the design and installation of monitoring desks or Security Operations Centers (SOC) for integrated surveillance and access control in one or several strategic locations.

In today's environment, employee and customer safety is as important as protecting your property. Nationwide Security Corporation provides a range of employee and customer safety solutions including entry/exit point notification, panic and duress alarms, critical condition monitoring such as temperature and floor protection, offsite secured remote video monitoring, third party central station services, intercom systems and more.

The Nationwide Security Corporation process for business security starts with a consultation with our security experts, and a full analysis of your building and business organization, to design a high-functioning system that provides a complete blanket of security.
