

Basic Talking Points

MyHealthMath will provide you with a custom communication strategy once we complete your Implementation Call. While you are waiting, here are some basic talking points to help get employees excited about Decision Doc.

Important: If you plan to include information about Decision Doc in any printed materials (emails, flyers, benefit guides, etc.) make sure to ask us for your custom URL. Otherwise, employees won't know how to get started!

- Open enrollment is coming soon! As an added benefit to you, we're pleased to share that Decision Doc, powered by MyHealthMath will be available to all employees. MyHealthMath is a completely neutral third party that can help you learn about our health plan options before choosing what's best for you.
- Decision Doc is MyHealthMath's interactive online platform that will help you choose an optimal health plan. You will go through a series of questions, either online or on the phone, and then receive an interactive report showing which health plan will save you the most money in the coming year.
- This is a free, quick, and easy confidential service that we encourage everyone to use. It can provide peace of mind for those of you that already know which plan you want to select. Alternatively, if you aren't sure which plan you're going to choose, Decision Doc can help you decide! You can even share multiple medical scenarios with them to see how each scenario would impact your plan options.
- Keep an eye out for more information about how to get started in the coming weeks!
