

Incident Management

A New Response Strategy

Smoother Response. Faster Recovery. Reduced Costs.

As business operations become more entwined with data and technology, cyber attacks are becoming more complex and disruptive to organizations' operations. This evolution has caused a shift in priorities during the incident response process. While privacy and legal concerns remain important, today's priorities are more often focused on IT and the need to get critical business operations up and running after an attack.

Many victims today find that they either don't have a response strategy - or are forming one for the first time. As a result, organizations need a Technical Advisor they can turn to from the start who has a proven playbook for leading incident response efforts and who can be the source of truth about what is needed to respond with speed and precision.

At MOXFIVE, our goal is to be that first resource for any organization facing an incident – providing the technical insight to put our clients on the right path from day one. Our Technical Advisors have managed and led many of the most prolific security investigations in the world and can quickly assess any situation to determine the most efficient and cost-effective technical response strategy.

Incident Management

MOXFIVE provides the clarity and peace of mind needed for attack victims during the incident response process. Our Technical Advisors serve as an Incident Coordinator to clearly define the incident, the action plan to be executed, and manage the incident response efforts.

Learn More →

Working with MOXFIVE Technical Advisors provides the following benefits:

Predictability

It's our job to eliminate surprises - so we communicate often and clearly to keep projects running smoothly. Transparency is key to what we do.

IT & Security Expertise

With deep understanding of both IT operations and security technologies, MOXFIVE Technical Advisors can quickly assess the situation and determine the most efficient and cost-effective response strategy or solution for the problem at hand.

Access to Experts at Scale

MOXFIVE maintains an ecosystem of the industry's best technology experts and service providers so that we can quickly assemble the right team based on the skills you need.

Resilient Outcomes

MOXFIVE provides advisory and implementation services to address the business process and technology requirements needed to build resilient security operations.

MOXFIVE Incident Management Services

At MOXFIVE, solving problems is who we are and what we do. Our Technical Advisors bring technical expertise at the strategic level to help organizations of all types solve their most challenging technology-related problems. Our Technical Advisors serve as an Incident Coordinator to clearly define the incident, create an action plan to be executed, and manage the incident response efforts through to completion.

Business Recovery

Restore Business Operations

- Assess viability of backups
- Restore, rebuild or decrypt impacted systems and applications
- EDR deployment
- Help Desk support

Forensic Investigation

Identify Root Cause/Unauthorized Activity

- Collect forensic data to support investigation
- Collaborate with forensics to modify response approach based on risk

Reinforce

Build a Secure, Resilient Environment

- Ongoing MOXFIVE Advisory support
- MOXFIVE Business Resilience offerings

Containment

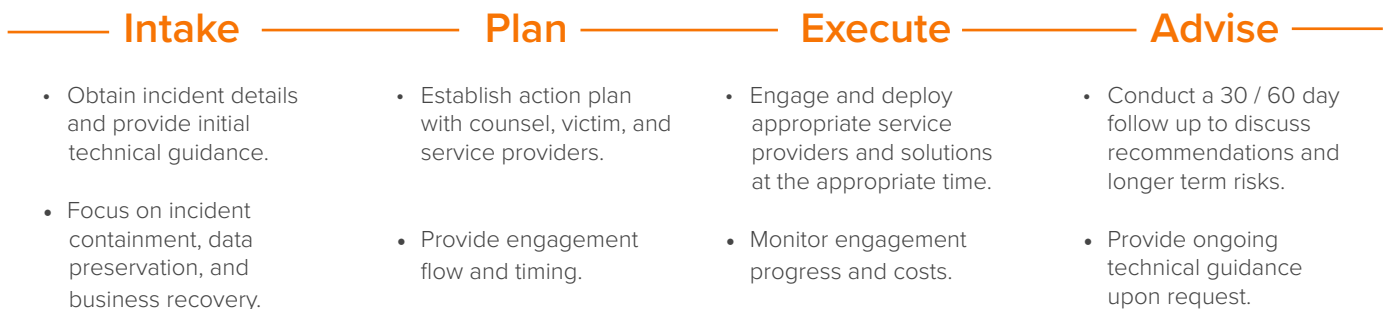

Mitigate the Ongoing Threat

- Advise on effective containment strategies
- Implement containment mechanisms such as password resets, malware blocks, network blocks and implementation of MFA

The MOXFIVE Process

Our Technical Advisors have a proven playbook for leading incident response efforts - helping you recover with speed and precision.

MOXFIVE is a specialized technical advisory firm founded to help minimize the business impact of cyber attacks. Over the last decade, our team of experts has helped thousands of businesses respond to major incidents and saw firsthand that there needed to be a better way for organizations to get the technical expertise they need when they need it most. With deep roots in incident response and corporate IT, MOXFIVE Technical Advisors strive to be the go-to technical resource for our clients - helping organizations of all types solve their most challenging technology-related problems and provide technical expertise at scale.

 www.moxfive.com

 (833) 568-6695

 info@moxfive.com

