I know there are a lot of questions about new procedures, receiving online materials, when schedules will be sent, and myriad other concerns; that is the reason I hold these forums. Please do understand that this is a wholly different schedule and plan than we are used to having at TFS. We are working hard to get those plans in place, and be assured they will change as we improve and expand on them as we move forward. Thanks for your calm patience! I have confidence, though, that this experience will make us stronger as a school community, and our faculty and staff are more than ready for the challenge. They return on Wednesday of this week and are excited to be back. As I have told them throughout the summer, the watchwords for all of us this year will be patience and flexibility.

The faculty, staff, and administration are looking with high anticipation toward seeing all of our students again, whether online or in person! We certainly understand this is a scary and uncertain time, and we all are experiencing it too! Thank you for your prayers for, and enthusiastic support of, all of us here at TFS as we navigate these changes and plan on the best ways to continue to excel in meeting the academic needs of your children!

With much appreciation,

Michael Watson
