DCDC'S CORPORATE CIRCLE

Dayton Contemporary Dance Company (DCDC) invites your company to join our Corporate Circle. Your company will become a member of a select group of corporate leaders and entrepreneurs in support of DCDC's internationally acclaimed performing art and premier arts-integrated education programming.

We serve approximately 35K to 40K individuals locally, regionally, and globally. In the years ahead, we plan to grow our audiences through our current and expanding use of digital delivery of services, whether a world-class performance of dance or an engaging arts-integrated education activity. We hope to reach the nation more readily through digital content and performance.

Founded in 1968, DCDC, an African American company, was born in another period that saw the struggle for social, economic, and just advancement of African Americans and other minorities. The international world of the performing arts has recognized the excellence of DCDC's art. As it has for decades, DCDC continues to perform in diverse and prominent performance venues throughout the world, from Russia and China to Chile and France and across the United States.

At the same time, while touring the nation and the world, DCDC remains a Dayton company. For over half a century, DCDC demonstrates its loyalty to the people of Dayton, the state of Ohio, and a growing region in southwest Ohio, especially Cincinnati.

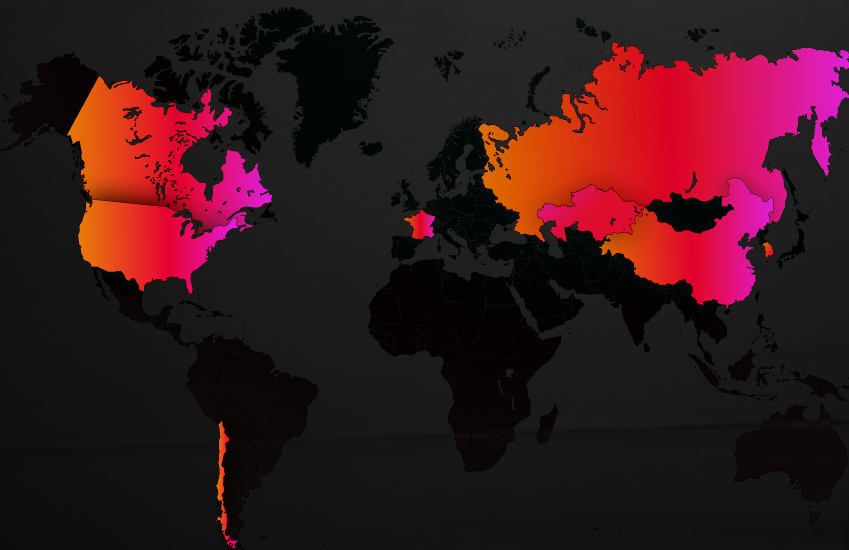

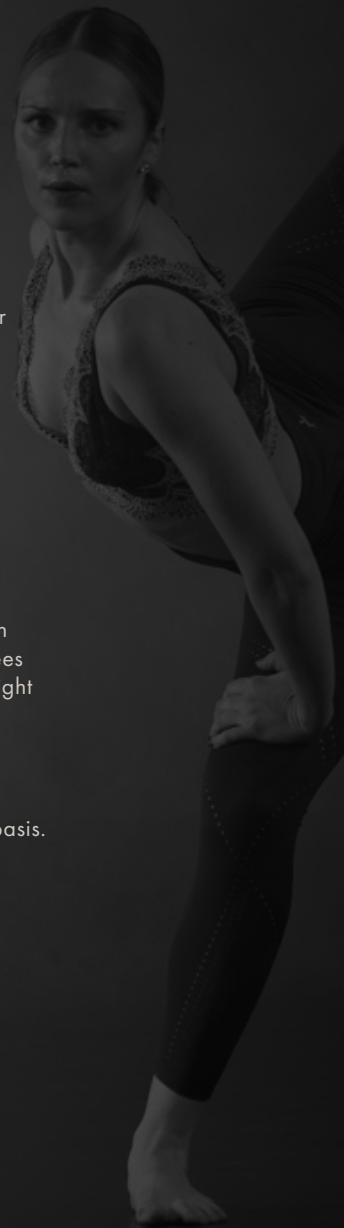

DAYTON CONTEMPORARY DANCE COMPANY

OUR STORY

Rooted in the African American experience, the Dayton Contemporary Dance Company is a culturally diverse contemporary dance company committed to reaching the broadest audience through exceptional performance and arts-integrated education.

- DCDC is the oldest modern dance company in Ohio and one of a handful of performing arts organizations of international reputation located outside a major metropolitan area;
- DCDC is the longest, continuous running African American arts organization in the Midwest, United States;
- DCDC is Ohio's top African American cultural company providing education programming to youth all around Ohio but with a focus in southwest Ohio, serving over 22,000 youth;
- DCDC is also fiscally robust, with eleven consecutive years of balanced budgets, a seasoned administrative staff, and a committed board of directors representing various sectors in the for-profit and non-profit arenas;
- DCDC is one of Ohio's top cultural exports as evidenced by its touring portfolio that includes the Bolshoi Theatre in Moscow, two performance tours to China as well as performances in Bermuda, Kazakhstan, and more;
- DCDC, in its 2019-20 season, gave two performances in New York City's Lincoln Center, one in Philadelphia, and a premier concert in Cincinnati for the first time in twelve years, announcing DCDC's expansion of services to the city's metropolitan and surrounding areas;
- DCDC, in 2018, gave a special summer performance at the prestigious American Dance Festival;
- DCDC, in 2019, hosted the 35th annual conference of the International Association of Blacks in Dance, with over 800 attendees from all over the United States and from eight different nations; and
- DCDC continues its on-going practice of presenting nationally and internationally renowned choreographers on an annual basis.
